

Tina Hager

Photographer for the Task Force for Business and Stability Operations (TFBSO), U.S. Department of Defense

Based in the Middle East, Tina works primarily in Iraq and Afghanistan, documenting economic reconstruction as well as photographing the daily lives of Iraqis and Afghans. Most recently, Tina worked on a variety of assignments throughout the region including the United Arab Emirates and Pakistan as well as training Afghan President Karzai's staff photographers in Kabul.

A well-known international photojournalist, Tina has over 25 years experience photographing a wide-array of assignments most typically in volatile settings. Her portfolio consists of a collection of commercial, international newsworthy events, unique areas of interest and human condition.

Previously, Tina served as a White House photographer for four years and has a permanent gallery exhibition featuring the White House Residence Staff on display at the White House Visitor's Center.

Born in Boston, Tina is a graduate of the National Academy of Photography in Munich, Germany.